

IDS 2338

Democratic Engagement and Public Leadership

What does citizenship in a democracy like the U.S. mean to you? Learn how to be informed and engaged!

Fall '23 | Marianne Vernetson | Online | 3 credits

Being a citizen implies a certain set of individual responsibilities that are essential to a healthy and functioning democracy. Fulfilling one's role as a citizen requires engaged and informed participation. This course provides the tools and skills needed to be an effective citizen and offers opportunities for engagement and experiential learning. From the founding documents to the role of the press in politics, this course provides an understanding of how the past informs current political debate.