The Colburn Student Opportunity Fund seeks to support undergraduate students with a demonstrated financial need in opportunities in civic engagement, public leadership, effective public policy, and public service beyond the confines of the Alachua County community.

The Colburn Student Opportunity Fund provides students with the opportunity to pursue experiences related to professional development. The need-based fund is intended to support expenses associated with experiential learning opportunities outside of the Alachua County area. These may include, but are not limited to: internships, conferences, fellowships, and research. The award ranges from $500 - $1500, depending on funds available, and the financial need of a Colburn applicant.

If you have any questions, please reach out to Dr. Kevin Bird at
