

Thank you for your interest in the Civic Scholars program of the Bob Graham Center for Public Service, an opportunity for University of Florida undergraduates to engage in a semester of entry-level research. Please note that prior research experience or training is NOT required.

The Spring 2024 Civic Scholars Program will help students develop a better understanding of the issues that impact communities across the Gulf Coast, addressing the broad themes of civic engagement, public service, or public policy.

Civic Scholars should be prepared to enroll in a 2-credit course (IDS 4911: Civic/Gulf Scholars Research) instructed by Graham Center faculty Dr. Teresa Cornacchione and Marianne Vernetson.

The course is scheduled every Tuesday from 3:00 PM to 4:55 PM in Turlington 2338. For complete information, visit our website.

The Civic Scholars program offers opportunity to engage in a semester of entry-level research. Please describe any prior research experience you may have. If you do not have any prior research experience, you may answer simply "no prior research experience."

Why are you interested in this year's research topic on Florida's Gulf communities?

REMINDER: The Civic Scholars class is held every Tuesday, beginning January 9, from 3:00–4:55 PM in Turlington 2328. I understand that to participate in the 2024 Civic Scholars program I must be available to enroll in the Civic Scholars 2-credit course for the 2024 Spring Semester. I understand that I will be expected to actively engage in program activities, including attending class, completing required assignments, and contributing to a collaborative research project (excepting any absences allowed under UF Attendance Policy).
